

ROSSLYN

In the late 1980s, there was a renowned pharmacist in Beauvoir-sur-Mer, a small coastal town in southern France. Her name is Anna De Petit, and many perfumes with big name in the world are developed by her. She graduated from Grasse Institute of Perfumery, the palace of pharmacists. As a gifted student of Grasse Institute of Perfumery, she grasped traditional European pharmaceutical technology and superb academic attainments during her school years. Grasse is the world's perfume capital and is known as the paradise of smell. Smell is an amazing memory store and a kind of body memories that is deeper than any other ones. Anna De Petit completed her course centering on the high-grade perfume field. After graduation, she established Beauvoir Biotechnology Biotechnology Research Studio, engaging in study on fragrance, essential oil and plant extracts to develop high-quality personal care products which were fully enjoyed by the French aristocrats and consumers with great enthusiasm.

Carefully selected high-quality raw materials offer you an extraordinary bathing experience.
